INTRODUCTION

. The goal of a green campus project is to encourage sustainability on campus by implementing eco- and environment-friendly practices and program. It offers a chance to take the initiative in redefining environmental culture and developing an innovative approach by coming up with sustainable solutions that are safe for both the environment and people. It all comes down to choosing non-traditional, renewable resources over conventional ones and forgoing the usage of them. The green campus project also involves gathering and conserving water, buying environmentally friendly, power-saving technology, and properly processing, disposing of and recycling garbage. In order to execute green campus activities at the institute, strategy and planning are required. By putting into practice concrete plans for a green campus, the institution is fulfilling its societal obligation to preserve natural resources and advance sustainability and environmental preservation.

For most Green Campus Initiatives at ABCA

- Segregation of degradable and non-degradable solid waste
- Plantation and landscaping
- No vehicle days
- Usage of bicycles, public transports
- Plastic free campus awareness lecture.
- Use of eco-friendly material for various purposes
- Creating awareness of environmental sustainability among the students and society.
